

Figure 1: Exemplary finding of a local correlation between Particulate Matter Pollution and COVID-19 incidence rate. Cole, Ozgen et al., 2020

On a global level, looking at average data from countries, this relationship is hard to replicate (see Figure two). This has multiple reasons: firstly, air pollution is mostly caused by point sources, making

Appendix: Overview of key findings of the 14

